SMITH ALLEGES CONVICT FRAUDS

Indicates Additional Arrests Will Be Made.

WARDEN SEEKS SQUARE DEAL

Would Have Head of State Bureau of Criminal Identification Place His Cards on the Table—Charge That Money Is Paid to Get Men Out of Prison Should Be Thoroughly Investigated, Says Governor Donahey.

Columbus, July 15.—William N. Smith, superintendent of the state bureau of criminal identification, intimated that additional arrests will be made of persons accused of taking money from relatives of penitentiary prisoners on representation that they could secure release of prisoners through their influence.

Smith caused the arrest of E. C. Reed, whom he charged with having taken $300 from Mrs. Harry Cowdery, whose husband has served six years of a life term from Butler county for second degree murder. He also caused the arrest of Herbert Hoffman, former private secretary to Smith, alleging that Hoffman embezzled $150 from the mother of a convict. Hoffman is alleged to have represented that he could get the son's release for $100. He is accused of keeping the $100 and $50 additional sent to him to be given to the prisoner. Hoffman roomed at the home of Mrs. Cowdery.

Reed pleaded not guilty when he was arraigned before Judge Miller here, and his case was continued until July 28. Reed, brother of Chaplain T. O. Reed of the penitentiary, is charged with having represented to Mrs. Cowdery that through his influence he could secure her husband's release.

Reed claims the transaction was a legitimate one and that the money was to defray expenses of securing evidence that Cowdery is innocent. Reed further claims that the charges against him were "framed."

Hoffman also pleaded not guilty and his case will be heard July 18.

Superintendent Smith in a statement challenged Warden Thomas of the penitentiary to "condone this system of extracting blood money from the relatives of prisoners in the Ohio penitentiary." He was replying to a statement by the warden, who called upon Smith to lay his cards on the table. "I know now of men who do nothing else but look up cases of men who can be sprung from the prison by obtaining letters of recommendation from judges and prosecuting attorneys through the use of political influence," Smith said.

"I was directed to investigate this situation by Governor Donahey and Welfare Director Harper. If we are successful other arrests will follow. If not, I will ask the legislature to make this form of graft a felony. If the reports are corroborated after a thorough investigation that witnesses in this case have been tampered with, I will request Prosecutor King to make a grand jury investigation."

Governor Donahey said the oft-recurring rumors of money paid to get men out of the penitentiary are now out in the open, where their truth or falsity may be determined. The developments should serve as a reason to get the whole question before the grand jury, the governor believes. Concurring with him in this belief is Welfare Director John E. Harper.

Warden Thomas said that he was "condoning nothing." "All I want is for Smith to put his cards on the table and not insinuate and reflect upon others who may be innocent. All I want is for the guilty to be 'smoked out.'"

Officer Believed Slain.

Asheville, N. C., July 15.—The hills around Asheville were scoured by volunteer searchers hunting trace of Major Samuel H. McLeary, missing since July 2, when he left Raleigh for Fort Moultrie, S. C. The search was organized by Major S. M. Williams when a blood-stained army cap and an abandoned automobile, both identified as Major McLeary's, were found near Canton. Authorities believe Major McLeary was murdered and his body concealed. They could supply no motive.

Dashed Over Sidewalk.

Canton, O., July 15.—When the steering knuckle on his automobile broke, M. L. Hoover's car dashed over a sidewalk and seriously injured John Kisor, 22, and his brother, Alva Kisor, of Wellstown.

Columbus, July 15.—Gilbert Fuller of Fuller & Rounsavel, local securities brokers, announced that Cyrus S. This offer was made June 16, when the common stock was fluctuating between 95 and 101. Following the offer the stock jumped to as high as 110 and recently had been selling around 108 and 110. Fuller, in making the announcement, said that the control of the company is not and has not been owned locally for some time.

AMERICAN FLIERS IN HOME STRETCH

Rest Up in Paris After Long Flight From Vienna.

ENTER LAST STAGE OF TRIP

Nearly Three-Quarters of Their Route Behind Them and They Expect to Reach Boston by Aug. 10—Trip of 7,000 Miles Still Before the American Army's Intrepid Airmen—The Transatlantic Hop.

Paris, July 15.—The American around-the-world fliers reached Paris after a hop from Vienna, capital of Austria.

They now have flown more than two-thirds of their flight around the world.

Lieutenants Smith, Nelson and Wade appeared nearly exhausted by their efforts. They showed the marks of the hardships they had endured—the burning heat of India and the biting frozen blizzards of the northern Pacific had left their grim imprint. "We feel fine, except for loss of sleep," Lieutenant Lowell Smith, the commander, declared.

"We encountered a severe storm after leaving Vienna," Lieutenant Smith reported. "Our ships were badly buffeted and for an hour we flew in a heavy rainstorm."

Commander Smith himself showed the strain of his efforts. He has suffered from dysentery and a fractured rib, but has clung gamely to the task at hand, and set an example for his comrades that has made them ready for any hardships in order to complete their world flight on schedule.

French airplanes met and escorted the Americans to Le Bourget, the air-drome on the outskirts of Paris, where they landed. They then went to the Hotel Crillon, where General Pershing formally welcomed them. Thousands cheered the aviators as they moved through the streets of Paris.

With nearly three-quarters of their route behind them now, the American fliers are about to enter the last stage of their flight. They expect to reach Boston Aug. 10. To date the fliers have covered 18,035 miles in 118 days. They have actually spent 239 hours and 33 minutes in the air, covering an average of about 75 miles an hour while flying.

Before them still stretches a route of 7,296 miles, divided into two stages; from Paris to Boston 4,466 miles, and from Boston to Santa Monica, Cal., their starting point, 2,830 miles.

The transatlantic hop will include three open water jumps—from the Orkney islands to Iceland, from Greenland to Greenland and from Greenland to Labrador. To the fliers, who were buffeted by Alaskan gales and blizzards in negotiating the Pacific crossing, however, these are expected to present no terrors, as favorable weather is counted on.

DRAFT QUESTIONNAIRE

Organized Labor to Sound Out All Candidates For Office.

Columbus, July 15.—The nonpartisan political conference of the Ohio Federation of Labor convened at state headquarters in Columbus and made up a questionnaire to be sent to all candidates. No endorsement of candidates will be made until the primaries are held and the questionnaires answered. T. J. Donnelly, secretary, announced. Representatives of every central labor union, the state labor organizations and the railroad brotherhoods were present.

Herbert S. Bigelow of Cincinnati, minister of the People's church and ex-president of the Ohio constitutional convention, spoke before the conference on the subject of old age pensions and other matters of interest to labor. The questionnaires this year deal mainly with the child labor amendment ratification, 8-hour day, workmen's compensation and collective bargaining.

Revolt in Brazil.

Buenos Aires, July 15.—Reports reaching here describe the situation in the Brazilian state of Sao Paulo, where a section of the state army is in revolt against the state and federal government, as extremely chaotic, with citizens enlisting in the opposing factions. Strong government reinforcements arrived near Sao Paulo City over the week-end, but reports here agree the federalists are making little progress against the well-trained and splendidly equipped Sao Paulo state troops.

He was serving a sentence for uttering a check to defraud.

Beaten to Death.

Toledo, July 15.—Mrs. Isabella Rooney, 48, killed her husband, Charles Rooney, 68, of Alexis, by beating him over the head with a hammer while he was in a drunken stupor lying on the floor, according to police. Mrs. Rooney said that for the past 16 years her life had been one of constant abuse on the part of her husband and that while intoxicated she beat him to death.

Dope Seized; Arrests Made.

Akron, O., July 15.—Police say that with the arrest of two men and a woman, giving the names of George W. Federal agents assisted the police in the raids.

Enter Pleas of Guilty.

Dayton, O., July 15.—Three former directors of the American Finance company entered pleas of guilty when arraigned before Federal Judge Smith Hickenlooper for conspiracy to violate the postal laws and using the mails to defraud. They were Charles W. Potritz, Clarence Kieler and Harry B. Johnson.

TO CARRY CASE TO HIGH COURT

Shopcrafts Lose Equity Suit Against Pennsylvania.

CHARGES HELD NOT PROVEN

Federal Circuit Court of Appeals Dismisses Suit Representing 60,000 Employees For $15,000,000 Back Pay. Clerks' Suit Against the Pennsylvania Also Dismissed by the Court. History of Cases.

Philadelphia, July 15.—The equity suit against the Pennsylvania railroad by System Federation No. 90, said to represent 60,000 shopcraft employees, for $15,000,000 back pay, was dismissed by the United States circuit court of appeals here.

The court held that a charge of criminal conspiracy had not been proven against the railroad and its officers, including President Samuel Rea. At the same time the court dismissed an equity suit by the clerks' union against the Pennsylvania railroad.

The suits will be appealed to the United States supreme court, according to an opinion expressed at national shopcrafts headquarters, John Scott, secretary of the railway employees' department, embracing the federated shopcrafts, and Donald R. Richberg, who was counsel for the employees when the case was in the lower court, declared at Chicago that the case would be fought in the supreme court.

The railroad labor board had decided that the committee with which the Pennsylvania management conferred before changing its scale was not the legally designated and authorized representative of the employees. The transportation act requires that all disputes be considered in conference between the management and authorized representatives of the employees. The supreme court has ruled that decisions of the board are not enforceable.

COOLIDGE WILL SOUND KEYNOTE

To Be Formally Notified of His Nomination Aug. 14.

Washington, July 15.—The Republican national committee announced that President Coolidge will be notified formally of his nomination as the Republican presidential candidate in this city on the evening of Aug. 14.

Today the committee is sending out invitations to Republican governors of states, Republican members of congress and Republican leaders. The notification committee will be headed by Frank W. Mondell, the permanent chairman of the convention, who will make the notification address. The president, in his response, will sound the keynote of the national campaign from the Republican standpoint.

Continental Memorial hall, where the notification ceremonies will be held, seats less than 2,000, but the whole proceedings will be broadcast by radio over the entire country. The desire to have the ceremonies broadcast led to the decision to hold them indoors and at night.

Notification of Charles G. Dawes, the Republican vice presidential nominee, will be made at Evanston, Ill., his home, within a few days after Mr. Coolidge is notified.

Three Bandits Shot.

Kansas City, Mo., July 15.—Three bandits who attempted to hold up the Citizens' Security bank at Englewood, a suburb, were shot and wounded by C. E. Cole, cashier. The wounded men were dragged into a car by their companions and driven away. No loot was obtained. Cole, after surrendering an undetermined amount of cash, opened fire with a revolver. One bandit fell inside the bank, and two more toppled off the steps at the entrance.

Sentenced to Workhouse.

Canton, O., July 15.—E. E. Webb, superintendent of the Fairmont children's home at Alliance, and three other men who participated in the whipping of William L. Shaw of this city three months ago, in a woods near here, were sentenced to the workhouse.

BRYAN WELCOMED HOME

Parade, Music and Speech by Nominée Feature the Occasion.

Lincoln, Neb., July 15.—Thousands greeted Governor Charles W. Bryan, Democratic vice president nominee, on his arrival here. Business was at a standstill. The populace jammed the sidewalks and crowded windows in office buildings. From the business district the marchers swung down the avenue leading to the governor's mansion where his wife and family were waiting for him. At the residence the parade broke up.

Responding to calls Mr. Bryan said: "I'm glad to be home. I appreciate your support and friendship and I'm going to ask that the formal notification take place here within a few weeks. I owe a debt of gratitude to the people of Lincoln and the state of Nebraska that I will never be able to repay," the governor said. "You have shown me kindness beyond anything I deserve. I not only appreciate it, but I hope no act of mine shall ever cause you to regret this great manifestation you have shown."

Amnesty For Caillaux.

Paris, July 15.—Former Premier Joseph Caillaux, who once barely escaped facing a firing squad for treason, has been granted amnesty and restoration of political rights by a vote of the new French chamber of deputies. Together with Caillaux, Louis Malvey, who once was known as "the tool of Caillaux," receives political absolution and is entitled to a seat in the chamber of deputies.

RAIN CAUSES SETBACK

Came at Critical Point in Development of Corn Crop.

Columbus, July 15.—C. J. West, state-federal agricultural statistician, stated that the heavy rains of the week-end have given Ohio crops another setback. The corn fields will be unfit for cultivation for two or three days at a critical point in the development of the crop, West declared. Much of the corn will be too large to work by the time the ground is in proper condition, he said. The hay crop has doubtless been harmed by the weather. There have been but few days in which it might be cured properly and much of that cut down has been rained upon, damaging its quality, according to West.

Martin Beats O'Dowd.

Columbus, July 15.—Terry Martin of New York won the judges' decision over Eddie O'Dowd of Columbus, in a 12-round bout here, the easterner taking down the honors because he was constantly on the offensive. They are bantamweights. In the 8-round semi-final Waldo Patterson of Columbus won on points over Leo Haney of Cincinnati. They are welterweights.

British Flier Off.

Tokio, July 15.—Major A. S. C. MacLaren, British world flier, set the nose of his machine northward from Minato, Japan, and began the first stage of his transpacific flight through Aleutian blizzards and the perils of the north.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS AIDS STUDENT WORK

Collates Information on Colleges and Universities.

Geneva.—Useful information concerning world universities is contained in the first quarterly publication of the international office of university intelligence, which was recently created as a new co-operative feature of the League of Nations.

These publications will endeavor to co-ordinate in compact form international university information and fulfill the purpose of the new office, which is that of serving as a bridge between the higher institutions of learning in all countries.

They will relate the exchange of professors and students, list the books of interest to university people, and catalogue the administrative measures adopted by various universities concerning the conditions under which foreigners may follow courses of study, explain scholarships, the tuition conditions affecting foreigners and set forth the special courses which may be open to them.

The first number of the review publishes the results of an inquiry among international students' associations on an organization for the exchange of students from one country to another; the conditions under which students work abroad, and questions touching university courses in general.

Under the heading, "university information," appears the text of a convention on the mutual exchange of students between five countries of Central America, communications sent in by the national university offices of the United States, England, Denmark, Spain, France, Holland and Switzerland, and notices from various international associations of students.

This is only one of hundreds of bugs drawn by Miss Hart during her 12 years' service. Her subjects range in size from a speck of dirt, only visible through a microscope, to bugs measuring several inches in length.

1,500 Indians to Get $10,000,000 of Land

Aberdeen, Wash.—Approximately 1,500 Indians of the Quinault reservation will share about $10,000,000 worth of timber land. It was estimated recently, as a result of the Supreme court decision whereby the allotment policy of the Department of Indian Affairs for the past 12 years is rendered invalid. Each Indian's share by this computation is about $6,700.

The territory to be allotted to the Indians constitutes about three-quarters of the reservation area. The remaining fourth was allotted prior to suspension of allotments as agricultural and grazing land.

Work of allotment will be started immediately, according to advices from Charles H. Burke, Indian commissioner at Washington. The lands to be allotted include some of the finest tracts of standing timber in the state.

Politeness Costly

Seattle, Wash.—Politeness cost Robert R. Fields, a steamship employee, his month's wages here. He boarded a street car to visit a park and encountered a woman friend, doffed his hat. The money, which he had secreted in the hat band, fell out, he reported.

Parcel Post Brings Lizard From Germany

Philadelphia.—A lizard from Germany, picked up in the Kiel canal and said to be a rare specimen, arrived recently by parcel post from Hamburg, consigned to a scientific institution. The lizard was none the worse for the long journey by land and sea, for when the package was opened by the customs examiners he jumped out and the federal officers scattered. He was finally captured, but not until he had lost part of his tail.

The reptile had a long, slim body, covered with numerous spots and when angered his tail coiled up like a watch spring.

"Of First Water"

This means that the diamond has the highest degree of purity and fineness. When we say a diamond or other precious stone is of the first water it denotes that the gem is free from all traces of color, blemish, flaw or other imperfection, and that its brilliancy is perfect.

"Aladdin's Window"

Quebracho Bark Valuable.

Quebracho bark, one of the chief exports of the Argentine, will tan leather at least three times as fast as the bark of the oak or the hemlock, and in less than ten years fortunes have been made by investing in quebracho lands. Nearly 1,000,000 tons of the wood, or the dry extract, are sent to the United States and Europe annually. The growth of the tree is of the slowest, and it is estimated that 1,000 years is required for it to reach maturity.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS AIDS STUDENT WORK

Collates Information on Colleges and Universities.

Geneva.—Useful information concerning world universities is contained in the first quarterly publication of the international office of university intelligence, which was recently created as a new co-operative feature of the League of Nations.

These publications will endeavor to co-ordinate in compact form international university information and fulfill the purpose of the new office, which is that of serving as a bridge between the higher institutions of learning in all countries.

They will relate the exchange of professors and students, list the books of interest to university people, and catalogue the administrative measures adopted by various universities concerning the conditions under which foreigners may follow courses of study, explain scholarships, the tuition conditions affecting foreigners and set forth the special courses which may be open to them.

The first number of the review publishes the results of an inquiry among international students' associations on an organization for the exchange of students from one country to another; the conditions under which students work abroad, and questions touching university courses in general.

Under the heading, "university information," appears the text of a convention on the mutual exchange of students between five countries of Central America, communications sent in by the national university offices of the United States, England, Denmark, Spain, France, Holland and Switzerland, and notices from various international associations of students.

Her subjects range in size from a speck of dirt, only visible through a microscope, to bugs measuring several inches in length.

1,500 Indians to Get
$10,000,000 of Land

Aberdeen, Wash.—Approximately 1,500 Indians of the Quinault reservation will share about $10,000,000 worth of timber land, it was estimated recently, as a result of the Supreme court decision whereby the allotment policy of the Department of Indian Affairs for the past 12 years is rendered invalid. Each Indian's share by this computation is about $6,700.

The territory to be allotted to the Indians constitutes about three-quarters of the reservation area. The remaining fourth was allotted prior to suspension of allotments as agricultural and grazing land.

Work of allotment will be started immediately, according to advices from Charles H. Burke, Indian commissioner at Washington. The lands to be allotted include some of the finest tracts of standing timber in the state.

Politeness Costly

Seattle, Wash.—Politeness cost Robert R. Fields, a steamship employee, his month's wages here. He boarded a street car to visit a park and encountering a woman friend, doffed his hat. The money, which he had secreted in the hat band, fell out, he reported.

Parcel Post Brings Lizard From Germany

Philadelphia.—A lizard from Germany, picked up in the Kiel canal and said to be a rare specimen, arrived recently by parcel post from Hamburg, consigned to a scientific institution. The lizard was none the worse for the long journey by land and sea, for when the package was opened by the customs examiners he jumped out and the federal officers scattered. He was finally captured, but not until he had lost part of his tail.

The reptile had a long, slim body, covered with numerous spots and when angered his tail coiled up like a watch spring.

"Of First Water"

This means that the diamond has the highest degree of purity and fineness. When we say a diamond or other precious stone is of the first water it denotes that the gem is free from all traces of color, blemish, flaw or other imperfection, and that its brilliancy is perfect.

"Aladdin's Window"

One of the windows in Aladdin's palace was left for the sultan to finish. His treasure gave out and the window was never completed; hence the popular allusion to an attempt to finish something left unfinished by a great man.

One of the earliest known writers on mechanics was Hero of Alexandria. He invented Hero's fountain, in which the jet of water was kept up by compressed air. Fragments of his writings on mechanics are extant.

HERRICK
REFRIGERATORS

DRY AIR SYSTEM
REFRIGERATOR

The Big Difference In Refrigerators

The main object of any refrigerator, of course, is the preservation of foods. The refrigerator that will keep foods in perfect condition longest is naturally the refrigerator you want—provided it doesn't increase your ice bills.

The Herrick answers those requirements with facts—not claims. And it does even more. It actually decreases your ice bills while giving you more effective food preservation.

And why? Simply because the Herrick is far more than an ice box—far more than a cold storage place. It is built on the scientifically demonstrated principle that more than merely cold air is necessary to keep foods in good condition for any great length of time.

Perhaps the biggest essentials to scientifically correct refrigeration are—

- No. 1. Circulation of cold dry air.
- No. 2. Effective Insulation.
- No. 3. Air-tight construction.

That the Herrick has these necessary essentials is a demonstrated fact. Many proofs of the truth are visible even to the least informed purchaser. Others are hidden within the walls of the refrigerator, but nevertheless there, performing their functions so important to good health and economy.

Chiffon and Gold Are Features of This Hat

Here is shown a charming chapeau of brown chiffon and gold stitching, a combination that is most pleasing.

Where Your Leghorn Hat Was Invented Years Ago

Did you ever wonder where your leghorn hat got its name? The "leghorn," which shades many feminine faces of a summer day, is exported from Leghorn, a port in Tuscany, says the Kansas City Star, where it was invented about the year 1840. It is made in the region around Florence.

The demand for these hats does not vary much from year to year, probably because they are both attractive and durable. They are naturally of a creamish yellow color. Their weave is close and gives the hats strength and stiffness, yet lets them bend just a bit, picturesquely, in the breeze. This quality gives the leghorn its wide reputation as a shade hat.

When you buy a real leghorn hat you may know that the braid for it was plaited by women and children in the Italian villages, who go about the streets doing the work. A few yards are made, then the braid is sewn together into hat form, or made into cones which are later blocked into various shapes. The sewing is done with a coarse, twisted cotton thread, which is hidden in the completed article, since the edges are so fitted that they seem to be woven in one piece.

The leghorn hat is made of tuscan straw, so-called, like the hat itself, from the locality from which it comes, Tuscany. The braids from which this straw is made, known as "paglia," "fiorentina" or "nostrale," are generally of thirteen strands, though they may be of only five to seven. The braid is very fine. The straw is from a peculiar kind of wheat, which is thickly sown, cut green and bleached. Straw hats, needless to say, always are found on the list of "principal exports" from Leghorn; and they are a big factor in the city's fame.

Ever since the first leghorn hat was made, its wide, floppy brim has recommended it to feminine fancy. Its becoming shape and size, as well as its flirtatious flutter, has given it first place as a "picture hat."

Bright Colors in Lead for Snappiest Sweaters

The sweater has become an inalienable accessory to every type of sports costume. Sweaters of bouclette, a French tricot with a soft angora surface, are unusually smart, says the Louisville Courier-Journal. They are single-toned in bright colors and display initials embroidered in black. Tricots showing an all-over cross-stitch design in square moroccan motifs are also favored mediums for the new knitted wear.

Sweaters with bands and stripes of contrasting colors are also fashionable. On these sweaters the striped portion makes the body of the sweater only—the sleeves being plain—and when bands are used they appear all around the edges. An effective model is three-quarter length and has a wide suede belt—an interesting departure from the traditional hip-length model.

An attractive sweater which is particularly adapted for midsummer wear is of skein wool woven on flat net. Another model exploits alternating bands of different motifs in an all-over design, which is usually developed in black or a dark color against a white or brightly colored background.

Way to Use Gasoline to Clean White Belt

To clean white kid belts commence operations by putting a table out of doors. You will need some clean rags and a thick white cloth to cover the table. Put some gasoline in a basin and into it put the belt; let this soak for a few minutes, then rub it and rinse it in the cloth and with pieces of rags rub off the dirt, always working in one direction, and constantly changing the surface of the rag. Rinse again in clean gasoline, and, with fresh rags, rub again until the surface is perfectly clean. Hang in the air to dry, and your belt will look perfectly clean.

Add Bright Touch

Now that the handkerchief is as decorative as well as a useful accessory, one finds the most delightful bits of linen and chiffon masquerading as a prosaic handkerchief. Exceedingly attractive are those of colored linen bordered with net which is edged with a fine line of black. When tucked into the pocket of a tulleur they look like gay flowers.

SMALL TOWN HUMOR AND PHILOSOPHY

By BUCK CAMPBELL

When a man resorts to abuse of his competitor it's all off with the former.

Bad people in the small town, if there are any, do not belong there; they are transient.

Did you ever see a man kiss a poodle dog? No, but we have seen them chasing chickens quite often.

Folks who do the most howling about high taxes, graft and corruption in office do the least to prevent it.

How about the old-fashioned fellow who advocated the raising of gin-sing as a method of getting rich quick?

A girl isn't necessarily a peach because she has the bloom on her cheek; she may have gotten it at the drug store.

If you don't think a man can keep a secret, just think of the many mean things that he knows about himself that he never tells.

Why beat a year's wear out of your rugs; send them to Barnhill's have them thoroly cleaned and colors returned bright and new. Call

HERRICK REFRIGERATORS

The Big Difference In Refrigerators

The main object of any refrigerator, of course, is the preservation of foods. The refrigerator that will keep foods in perfect condition longest is naturally the refrigerator you want—provided it doesn't increase your ice bills.

The Herrick answers those requirements with facts—not claims. And it does even more. It actually decreases your ice bills while giving you more effective food preservation.

And why? Simply because the Herrick is far more than an ice box—far more than a cold storage place. It is built on the scientifically demonstrated principle that more than merely cold air is necessary to keep foods in good condition for any great length of time.

Perhaps the biggest essentials to scientifically correct refrigeration are—

- No. 1. Circulation of cold dry air.
- No. 2. Effective Insulation.
- No. 3. Air-tight construction.

That the Herrick has these necessary essentials is a demonstrated fact.

Many proofs of the truth are visible even to the least informed purchaser. Others are hidden within the walls of the refrigerator, but nevertheless there, performing their functions so important to good health and economy.

BIG DARBYS

Will Play Fast Laurelville Next Sunday at Darbyville.

The Big Darby Athletics lost an eleven inning contest to the Millard Browns Sunday, 9 to 7.

The game was hard fought by both teams, and owing to the diamond being heavy both teams made several errors, but Darbys redeemed part of theirs by pulling five doubles.

It was a pitching duel between Downs for Darbys and Powell for the Browns, neither one allowing their hits bunched until the eleventh when two hits and two errors let the Browns put over two runs and Darbys couldn't hit safe in their half.

C. Downs was the hitting star for Darbys getting thru safeties in five times up and all of them when they were needed. Swank was a close second with a single and two base hit.

Big Darbys will play the fast Laurelville team next Sunday at Darbyville.

The dictionary gives the definition of bashfulness as "shrinking modesty." But our definition, after viewing Harold Lloyd's latest Pathe comedy, "Girl Shy," at the Met theater yesterday is that bashfulness is decidedly a subject for expansive laughter. Bashful persons have always inspired us with pity for them, but when Lloyd is seen as a boy scared to death of the female sex, he makes the part one of riotous mirth.

Lloyd is indeed one comedian whose pictures are ever a delight to see, for the reviewer and the audience never knows what to expect of him in advance. After a series of clever characterizations and stories in the past, he once more proves his great versatility in "Girl Shy" by giving to the screen one of the most entirely novel types of hero it has ever had. The old adage that "there is nothing new in the movies" has been completely blasted at last. Lloyd definitely proves the untruth of the timeworn statement.

Conspicuous in his support is pretty Jobyna Ralston, who made such a hit with him in his last success, "Why Worry?" Jobyna brings to the screen a distinctive type of beauty, young, dainty and refreshing. Others in the cast are Richard Daniels and Carlton Griffin with the direction credited to Fred Newmeyer and Sam Taylor.

"Girl Shy" will remain at the Met theater till Wednesday and it is one of the few pictures that can be recommended heartily to those who like to "shop" for their entertainment. For it is certainly a gloom-chaser de luxe.

Decline in Prices of Dairy Cattle

Pure Bred Aged Bulls Bring More at Private Sale.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Average sale prices of pure bred dairy cattle for the year ending December 31, 1923, ranged from $133 for bulls under one year to $268 for bulls over three years of age, according to reports submitted by breeders to the United States Department of Agriculture. The breeds included were: Ayrshire, Guernsey, Holstein, Jersey, and Brown Swiss. More than twice as many animals were disposed of at private sale as were sold at auction. Auction prices, however, averaged from $25 to $50 per head higher than those realized in private sales. Aged bulls were an exception, such animals bringing more in private sales than at auction.

The following comparison by ages shows that prices in 1923 were somewhat lower than in 1922:

Ages	1922	1923
Bulls under one year of age.....	$156	$133
Bulls over one and under three years of age.....	221	206
Bulls over three years of age.....	435	268
Heifers under one year of age.....	131	133
Cows and heifers over one and under three years of age.....	211	229
Cows over three years of age.....	255	261

The top bull and cow each brought $7,500. The number of animals represented were: Calves, under one year, 4,845; bulls, over one year and under three, 947; bulls over three years, 156; heifers and cows over one year and under three, 2,479, and cows over three years of age, 2,977.

Make Good Silage From Different Legume Crops

Some farmers have reported excellent results in making silage from alfalfa, clover, and other legumes, while others report that their legume silage was so poor the cows would not eat it.

The great extremes in the results reported as to the palatability of legume silage led Professor Eckles to investigate this question. He found that the difference in quality was apparently due to the amount of water in these legumes when ensiled. For two years they had made good alfalfa silage at the Missouri station, but the next two years the silage was practically worthless. In going over this experience, it was noted that the first two years were dry years and the analysis of the alfalfa when ensiled showed a high percentage of dry matter. The next two years were wet years and the analysis those years showed that the dry matter content was considerably less at the time the green alfalfa was ensiled. Further investigations showed that if alfalfa were made into silage when green and succulent, as it is at the usual time of making hay, it contains about 20 pounds of dry matter to the hundred and, under these conditions, would not make good silage. If it were drier and more mature and contained approximately 40 pounds of dry matter to the hundred, then it makes good silage.

Clover Is Helpful

The growing of clover in a three-year rotation, especially if the second crop of clover is plowed under, would keep many soils in splendid condition for a long time of years, although many other soils would be benefited by a dressing of one to two tons of limestone per acre once in each rotation period and also by the addition of acid phosphate for one of the crops in each rotation. The plowing under of the second crop will add considerable nitrogen.

FARM NOTES

Spray tomatoes and melons with bordeaux mixture to prevent disease.

Make sure to plant enough hay crops to supply hay for next year.

As small grain matures, look out for chinch bugs and use barriers if needed to prevent migration.

Persons desiring to start into the growing of alfalfa for seed should secure the most hardy strains of seed.

Excellent results are being secured with alfalfa seeded on rye and wheat provided the ground is fairly fertile and not in need of lime.

Cowpea hay contains 2.6 per cent more digestible protein than soy bean hay, but soy bean hay contains a larger total amount of nutrients.

Looking over the tile drain outlets in drainage districts and clearing out those that need it is a good spring or early summer job that may save money later.

Good barnyard manure makes the very best onion fertilizer, but it is best applied to the crop before the onions are planted so it will be in best form for them.

Sometimes alfalfa grows so rank that it lodges and becomes very coarse if left to reach full bloom. Here earlier cutting is essential, but with the first crop of one-year-old stands or the second growth of older seedings, the stems are generally much finer and leafier and can be cut in or near full bloom without serious impairment of quality.

TAYLOR'S WORK FOR COMPENSATION BILL

When the news that the adjusted compensation bill has been passed over the Presidential veto by the senate flashed from Washington to Indianapolis where fifty or more American Legion national executive committeemen were in session, one name, and one name only was in their minds—John Thomas Taylor.

For more than five years Taylor, a young Washington lawyer of recognized brilliance and an ardent Legionaire, had been directing the Legion's fight for passage of the bill. Either as chairman or vice chairman of the Legion's national legislative committee, he had been steering legislation beneficial to the disabled veterans and other ex-service men. He knew every senator, every representative in Washington. He was liked for his winning personality, his brilliance of mind and his ability to present a case convincingly to the men in whose hands rested the fate of legislation in which the Legion was interested. Six times he had got the adjusted compensation measure through the house by overwhelming majorities. Three times the senate had given the bill its support. Once fate intervened and blocked its final enactment; once the late President Harding had swept away Taylor's efforts with a stroke of the pen.

But this time, he intended nothing to interfere. The crucial moment had arrived, and as Taylor says himself, "when the battle is hottest, I think the quicker and don't lose my head." With consummate skill he brought the pressure to bear which defeated efforts to have action by the senate delayed.

John Thomas Taylor.

for a week, which the opposition hoped would be sufficient time to rally enough votes to sustain President Coolidge's veto. As the time drew close on May 19 for the final vote, Taylor, in an anteroom sat outlining his campaign. By his prearranged, jotted on a piece of paper which he held before him, the opposition had twenty-seven votes.

A friend dashed in with the news that a senator had moved the bill for vote.

"Are you ready, Taylor? Are you sure?" came the anxious queries from senatorial friends of the bill.

"Now or never. The Legion is going to win," said Taylor.

When the vote was finished the count stood 59 for and 26 against. One paired vote made Taylor's prearranged exactly right. He had figured precisely what was going to happen. It was not for nothing that he had stood guard over the Legion's legislative interests for six years. He had prepared graphs, charts and had worked for the passage of the adjusted compensation bill with the scientific preciseness of a chemist precipitating a chemical mixture.

The national executive committeemen of the Legion in recognition of Taylor's unflinching work presented him with a handsome watch as a token of their esteem.

Taylor began his army life as a buck private in the infantry, May, 1917. He was then thirty-two years old. In August, 1917, he went to an officers' training camp and came out a first lieutenant. Seventeen months of overseas service followed during which he fought at Chateau Thierry, Vesle river and Meuse-Argonne. His outfit was the first to cross the border when the Army of Occupation moved into Germany. He was discharged a captain and returned to Washington to take up his neglected law practice. But Legion work interested him, and he has found the time to be responsible in a large measure for the passage of many pieces of legislation, notably the Sweet bill, which increased the compensation of disabled comrades.

INDICTMENT UPHELD

Courts' Ruling in the Case of Harry Sinclair, Oil Magnate.

Washington, July 15.—Justice Hoehling of the District of Columbia supreme court upheld the indictment of Harry F. Sinclair, lessee of Teapot Dome, for contempt of the senate. Hoehling in refusing to grant the motion of Sinclair attorneys to quash the indictment, said that if congress could force citizens to answer only the questions they wished to answer, the welfare of the country would be imperiled. At the same hour Harry F. Sinclair, appeared in federal court at New York and posted $5,000 to insure his appearance in Washington whenever wanted for trial.

No Joke at the Time

Blind Michael, a Montana Indian, who can walk wherever a man with eyes can, was crossing a railroad trestle, when he heard a train coming. He lowered himself by his hands from a tie until the train which was a long one, had passed. Then he found that he could not get up again; that his fingers were slipping. He didn't know how far he would fall if he dropped and suddenly, he did drop—six inches to the ground. Now Michael tells the story with a smile, but it was no joke at the time.

Make sure to plant enough hay props to supply hay for next year.

As small grain matures, look out for chinch bugs and use barriers if needed to prevent migration.

Persons desiring to start into the growing of alfalfa for seed should secure the most hardy strains of seed.

Excellent results are being secured with alfalfa seeded on rye and wheat provided the ground is fairly fertile and not in need of lime.

Cowpea hay contains 2.6 per cent more digestible protein than soy bean hay, but soy bean hay contains a larger total amount of nutrients.

Looking over the tile drain outlets in drainage districts and clearing out those that need it is a good spring or early summer job that may save money later.

Good barnyard manure makes the very best onion fertilizer, but it is best applied to the crop before the onions are planted so it will be in best form for them.

Sometimes alfalfa grows so rank that it lodges and becomes very coarse if left to reach full bloom. Here earlier cutting is essential, but with the first crop of one-year-old stands or the second growth of older seedings, the stems are generally much finer and leafier and can be cut in or near full bloom without serious impairment of quality.

TAYLOR'S WORK FOR COMPENSATION BILL

When the news that the adjusted compensation bill has been passed over the Presidential veto by the senate flashed from Washington to Indianapolis where fifty or more American Legion national executive committeemen were in session, one name, and one name only was in their minds—John Thomas Taylor.

For more than five years Taylor, a young Washington lawyer of recognized brilliance and an ardent Legionaire, had been directing the Legion's fight for passage of the bill. Either as chairman or vice chairman of the Legion's national legislative committee, he had been steering legislation beneficial to the disabled veterans and other ex-service men. He knew every senator, every representative in Washington. He was liked for his winning personality, his brilliance of mind and his ability to present a case convincingly to the men in whose hands rested the fate of legislation in which the Legion was interested. Six times he had got the adjusted compensation measure through the house by overwhelming majorities. Three times the senate had given the bill its support. Once fate intervened and blocked its final enactment; once the late President Harding had swept away Taylor's efforts with a stroke of the pen.

But this time, he intended nothing to interfere. The crucial moment had arrived, and as Taylor says himself, "when the battle is hottest, I think the quicker and don't lose my head."

With consummate skill he brought the pressure to bear which defeated efforts to have action by the senate delayed

for a week, which the opposition hoped would be sufficient time to rally enough votes to sustain President Coolidge's veto. As the time drew close on May 19 for the final vote, Taylor, in an anteroom sat outlining his campaign. By his preconcert, jotted on a piece of paper which he held before him, the opposition had twenty-seven votes.

A friend dashed in with the news that a senator had moved the bill for vote.

"Are you ready, Taylor? Are you sure?" came the anxious queries from senatorial friends of the bill.

"Now or never. The Legion is going to win," said Taylor.

When the vote was finished the count stood 59 for and 26 against. One paired vote made Taylor's preconcert exactly right. He had figured precisely what was going to happen. It was not for nothing that he had stood guard over the Legion's legislative interests for six years. He had prepared graphs, charts and had worked for the passage of the adjusted compensation bill with the scientific preciseness of a chemist precipitating a chemical mixture.

The national executive committeemen of the Legion in recognition of Taylor's unflinching work presented him with a handsome watch as a token of their esteem.

Taylor began his army life as a buck private in the infantry, May, 1917. He was then thirty-two years old. In August, 1917, he went to an officers' training camp and came out a first lieutenant. Seventeen months of overseas service followed during which he fought at Chateau Thierry, Vesle river and Meuse-Argonne. His outfit was the first to cross the border where the Army of Occupation moved into Germany. He was discharged a captain and returned to Washington to take up his neglected law practice. But Legion work interested him, and he has found the time to be responsible in a large measure for the passage of many pieces of legislation, notably the Sweet bill, which increased the compensation of disabled comrades.

INDICTMENT UPHELD

Courts' Ruling in the Case of Harry Sinclair, Oil Magnate.

Washington, July 15.—Justice Hoehling of the District of Columbia supreme court upheld the indictment of Harry F. Sinclair, lessee of Teapot Dome, for contempt of the senate, Hoehling, in refusing to grant the motion of Sinclair attorneys to quash the indictment, said that if congress could force citizens to answer only the questions they wished to answer, the welfare of the country would be imperiled. At the same hour Harry F. Sinclair, appeared in federal court at New York and posted $5,000 to insure his appearance in Washington whenever wanted for trial.

No Joke at the Time

Blind Michael, a Montana Indian, who can walk wherever a man with eyes can, was crossing a railroad trestle, when he heard a train coming. He lowered himself by his hands from a tie until the train which was a long one, had passed. Then he found that he could not get up again; that his fingers were slipping. He didn't know how far he would fall if he dropped and suddenly, he did drop—six inches to the ground. Now Michael tells the story with a smile, but it was no joke at the time.

Not Flattering.

"You must have said something dreadful to Mr. Bestseller," "I merely suggested that he hire the fellow who got up his advertisements to write his books for him."

FIND USE FOR EXTINGUISHED POSTS

It took Somerville, Mass., a long time to realize that the automobile had superseded the horse permanently but now that the fact has been realized a use has been found for the hitching posts of another day. The posts have been placed on concrete bases and are being used for traffic posts.

TREAT YOUR CAR WITH AFFECTION

Fact That It Is Inanimate
Thing Is Lost Sight of
by Considerate Owner.

(By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.)

Man's tendency to ascribe a personality to his automobile is in no way surprising. It is just a natural outgrowth of his innate love of pets.

Where he used to have a horse as a companion for his play hours he now bestows the affection of a master upon his motorcar. Even his dog must share the petting with the sleek, speed-eating, gasoline quadruped.

So man has come to give his favorite car a soul and a name. The fact that it is an inanimate thing in the way of being boneless and deaf is lost sight of. When business or home troubles arise the man turns to the companionship of his automobile and, like Rip Van Winkle with his dog, goes into the hills. If tired a romp in the country with his mechanical pet rests him. He confides his yearnings to his car and it responds by interpreting his every mood.

Companionable Motor Pet.

And thus it naturally follows that the considerate master has the most companionable motor pet. He who quarrels with his machine gets a response that matches. Mistreated, the car behaves as abominably as a whipped horse or a starved dog. Caressed with proper care and regularly fed with water, oil, gasoline, it obeys—with all the feeling of a loved one.

Even more than all this, man chooses his pets from the most efficient breeds. So, in picking an automobile, his selection falls to the one that will most readily respond to his demands for comfort, power, mileage, dependability and, at the same time, be economically kept.

And comfort means success with motor touring as well as in anything else. Comfort is the reason for the modern highway. It is not merely the smooth road but also the way the road is posted. There are lots of signs and arrows pointing the way you should go without even having to slacken speed to read them. Of course you can take maps—but of what use are these other than to tell you the statistics of the town through which you are passing? Even Mr. Detour's card by the wayside points to future comfort—that the country is trying its darndest to keep the roads in perfect condition.

Specialize in Glowing Terms.

The open road! Gosh, it is no wonder that concerns dealing in automobiles and accessories love to specialize in glowing terms. And don't these advertisements make you want to get the old bus out into the open to set up your tent and enjoy the company of others who have heeded the glorious call of Nature?

You can just bet that they do!

Before Removing Fender Put Kerosene on Bolts

The automobile repairer bases his charges for installing a new fender mainly on the time he spends trying to remove the old one. And the car owner will discover that the "frozen" nuts and bolts which hold the fender in place will prevent most of the difficulty encountered in this sort of work. The rule is to squirt kerosene over the fender bolts just before trying to loosen them with the screwdriver. But the rule is not always the logical way to do things. A great deal of time will be saved by giving the fender bolts a kerosene bath the night previous to the day the work is to be done. In the morning much of the rust will have been removed and the bolts will turn much easier, for the kerosene will have had ample time to do its share of the work.

A Clutch Test

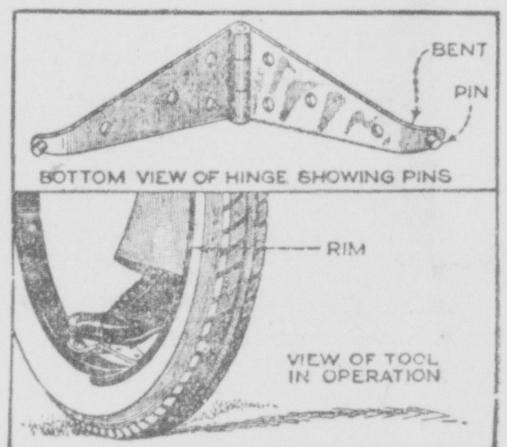

A clutch can be tested for slipping by letting the engine run at about 20 to 22 miles an hour. Put the emergency brake on tight and shift the gear to high speed, then gradually engage the clutch. If the motor stalls the clutch is not slipping. If the motor continues to run, then the clutch needs attention at once.

Nine Points to Check for Knocks of Motor

Knocks are always annoying to the best operators. The principal causes are:
Lack of oil.
Clogged radiator.
Too rich a mixture.
Spark advanced too far.
Failure of fan to work properly.
Wrong timing of ignition system.
Spark too late, causing overheating.
Preignition, due to excessive carbon.
Mechanical looseness of various kinds.

Rim Spreader Made From Plain Barn-Door Hinge

A common eight-inch barn-door hinge can be used to good advantage for spreading automobile rims when changing tires. If the rims are perfectly plain at the split it will be necessary to drill two 5-16 inch holes about 4 inches from the ends. Two pins are riveted or welded to the end of the hinge and each end is then bent as shown. The pins are inserted into the holes drilled in the rim and the hinge is pushed down with the foot, thus spreading the rim. If there are studs on the rim, the hinge can be used without pins, by simply butting the ends against the studs, notching the ends if necessary to prevent the hinge from slipping.—Frank N. Coakley, Buffalo, N. Y., in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

An Effective Automobile-Rim Spreader Made From a Barn-Door Hinge.

Points for Motorist to Watch on Slippery Days

To prevent skidding, a number of points should be observed in both operation and care of a car. Before venturing out in slippery streets with a car the engine should be in smooth running order, the clutch should disengage easily and freely and engage without suddenly grabbing. The brakes should be adjusted so that they take hold sufficiently to stop the car, but will not lock the wheels except when additional pressure is exerted. They should also take hold evenly at both wheels, because if they do not a sure swerve of the machine to the side of the tightest brake will result. A car which does not have both front and rear wheels in line will not efficiently hold the road in wet weather, especially when brakes are applied. This latter trouble may be due to sprung axles, front or rear; rear axle housing out of true or a sprung frame.

Valve Cap Is Valuable to Prevent Dirt Leaks

Motorists are warned not to err by taking it for granted that it makes little difference whether a cap is used on the tire valve and when a cap is lost to proceed without one. This idea is entirely erroneous, and motorists who do not use the valve cap can expect trouble.

When the cap is not used there is every probability that sand and dirt will work down into the valve and ultimately produce a leak. While a tire remains inflated this dirt in some cases may do no harm, but when a new inflation is made the pump drives the dirt down into the valve and makes an air-tight connection almost impossible.

Noiseless Auto Bodies

Automobile bodies made from a fabric in France eliminate noises common to those manufactured from metal and can be built for only about 10 per cent the cost of metal touring cars.

The Basilisk in Legend

The basilisk is a fabulous creature resembling a serpent, and supposed by the ancients to inhabit the Libyan desert. It was described as being of a yellowish color with spots of white and as having a pointed head, whereon stood one or more prominences, also white, resembling a diadem. Its breath was considered to be especially poisonous and its glance fatal. The word basilisk is now applied to a sort of lizard.

"Caesar" Once Family Name

The name "Caesar" was the family name of the first five Roman emperors, originating in Sextus Julius Caesar, who was a praetor, 208 B. C. The family became extinct with Nero in 68 A. D., and the title "Caesar" became simply a title of dignity. Both Augustus Caesar, born September, 63 B. C., who died in August of the year 14 A. D., and Tiberius ruled during the life of Christ. Augustus was reigning at the time of the birth of Christ.

In the Highlands

Mornings of heavenly freshness on the trail, canyons on canyons, peaks beyond peaks, ridges beyond ridges; sweet scents of balsam and pine; stormy sunrises and wistful sunsets; lakes lying blue in hidden hollows or trembling to sudden silver as the wind went by—quiet lyings awake at night, solemn glories of sunset peaks; communions with friendly trees; chattering of brooks; singings of creeks, and roaring of rivers; ghostly snow-glimmer by starlight; peaks in solemn ranks against the sky.—J. Smeaton Chase.

FIND USE FOR EXTINGUISHING POSTS

It took Somerville, Mass., a long time to realize that the automobile had superseded the horse permanently but now that the fact has been realized a use has been found for the hitching posts of another day. The posts have been placed on concrete bases and are being used for traffic posts.

TREAT YOUR CAR WITH AFFECTION

Fact That It Is Inanimate
Thing Is Lost Sight of
by Considerate Owner.

(By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.)

Man's tendency to ascribe a personality to his automobile is in no way surprising. It is just a natural outgrowth of his innate love of pets.

Where he used to have a horse as a companion for his play hours he now bestows the affection of a master upon his motorcar. Even his dog must share the petting with the sleek, speed-eating, gasoline quadruped.

So man has come to give his favorite car a soul and a name. The fact that it is an inanimate thing in the way of being boneless and deaf is lost sight of. When business or home trouble arise the man turns to the companionship of his automobile and, like Rip Van Winkle with his dog, goes into the hills. If tired a romp in the country with his mechanical pet rests him. He confides his yearnings to his car and it responds by interpreting his every mood.

Companionable Motor Pet.

And thus it naturally follows that the considerate master has the most companionable motor pet. He who quarrels with his machine gets a response that matches. Mistreated, the car behaves as abominably as a whipped horse or a starved dog. Caressed with proper care and regularly fed with water, oil, gasoline, it obeys—with all the feeling of a loved one.

Even more than all this, man chooses his pets from the most efficient breeds. So, in picking an automobile, his selection falls to the one that will most readily respond to his demands for comfort, power, mileage, dependability and, at the same time, be economically kept.

And comfort means success with motor touring as well as in anything else. Comfort is the reason for the modern highway. It is not merely the smooth road but also the way the road is posted. There are lots of signs and arrows pointing the way you should go without even having to slacken speed to read them. Of course you can take maps—but of what use are these other than to tell you the statistics of the town through which you are passing? Even Mr. Detour's card by the wayside points to future comfort—that the country is trying its darndest to keep the roads in perfect condition.

Specialize in Glowing Terms.

The open road! Gosh, it is no wonder that concerns dealing in automobiles and accessories love to specialize in glowing terms. And don't these advertisements make you want to get the old bus out into the open to set up your tent and enjoy the company of others who have heeded the glorious call of Nature?

You can just bet that they do!

Before Removing Fender Put Kerosene on Bolts

The automobile repairer bases his charges for installing a new fender mainly on the time he spends trying to remove the old one. And the car owner will discover that the "frozen" nuts and bolts which hold the fender in place will prevent most of the difficulty encountered in this sort of work. The rule is to squirt kerosene over the fender bolts just before trying to loosen them with the screwdriver. But the rule is not always the logical way to do things. A great deal of time will be saved by giving the fender bolts a kerosene bath the night previous to the day the work is to be done. In the morning much of the rust will have been removed and the bolts will turn much easier, for the kerosene will have had ample time to do its share of the work.

A Clutch Test

A clutch can be tested for slipping by letting the engine run at about 20 to 22 miles an hour. Put the emergency brake on tight and shift the gear to high speed, then gradually engage the clutch. If the motor stalls the clutch is not slipping. If the motor continues to run, then the clutch needs attention at once.

Nine Points to Check for Knocks of Motor

Knocks are always annoying to the best operators. The principal causes are:

Lack of oil.
Clogged radiator.
Too rich a mixture.
Spark advanced too far.
Failure of fan to work properly.

Wrong timing of ignition system.

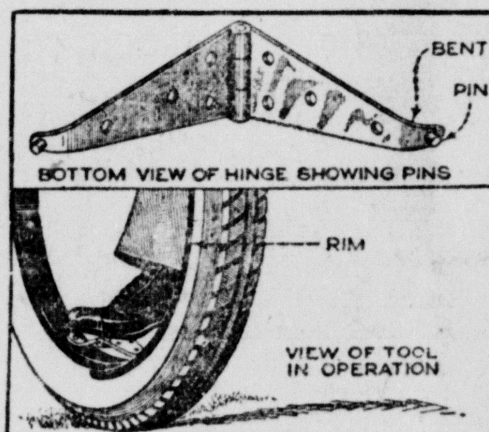

Spark too late, causing overheating.

Preglignition, due to excessive carbon.

Mechanical looseness of various kinds.

Rim Spreader Made From Plain Barn-Door Hinge

A common eight-inch barn-door hinge can be used to good advantage for spreading automobile rims when changing tires. If the rims are perfectly plain at the split it will be necessary to drill two 5-16 inch holes about 4 inches from the ends. Two pins are riveted or welded to the end of the hinge and each end is then bent as shown. The pins are inserted into the holes drilled in the rim and the hinge is pushed down with the foot, thus spreading the rim. If there are studs on the rim, the hinge can be used without pins, by simply butting the ends against the studs, notching the ends if necessary to prevent the hinge from slipping.—Frank N. Coakley, Buffalo, N. Y., in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

An Effective Automobile-Rim Spreader Made From a Barn-Door Hinge.

Points for Motorist to Watch on Slippery Days

To prevent skidding, a number of points should be observed in both operation and care of a car. Before venturing out in slippery streets with a car the engine should be in smooth running order, the clutch should disengage easily and freely and engage without suddenly grabbing. The brakes should be adjusted so that they take hold sufficiently to stop the car, but will not lock the wheels except when additional pressure is exerted. They should also take hold evenly at both wheels, because if they do not a sure swerve of the machine to the side of the tightest brake will result. A car which does not have both front and rear wheels in line will not efficiently hold the road in wet weather, especially when brakes are applied. This latter trouble may be due to sprung axles, front or rear; rear axle housing out of true or a sprung frame.

Valve Cap Is Valuable to Prevent Dirt Leaks

Motorists are warned not to err by taking it for granted that it makes little difference whether a cap is used on the tire valve and when a cap is lost to proceed without one. This idea is entirely erroneous, and motorists who do not use the valve cap can expect trouble.

When the cap is not used there is every probability that sand and dirt will work down into the valve and ultimately produce a leak. While a tire remains inflated this dirt in some cases may do no harm, but when a new inflation is made the pump drives the dirt down into the valve and makes an air-tight connection almost impossible.

Noiseless Auto Bodies

Automobile bodies made from a fabric in France eliminate noises common to those manufactured from metal and can be built for only about 10 per cent the cost of metal touring cars.

The Basilisk in Legend

The basilisk is a fabulous creature, resembling a serpent, and supposed by the ancients to inhabit the Libyan desert. It was described as being of a yellowish color with spots of white and as having a pointed head, whereon stood one or more prominences, also white, resembling a diadem. Its breath was considered to be especially poisonous and its glance fatal. The word basilisk is now applied to a sort of lizard.

"Caesar" Once Family Name

The name "Caesar" was the family name of the first five Roman emperors, originating in Sextus Julius Caesar, who was a praetor, 208 B. C. The family became extinct with Nero in 68 A. D., and the title "Caesar" became simply a title of dignity. Both Augustus Caesar, born September, 63 B. C., who died in August of the year 14 A. D., and Tiberius ruled during the life of Christ. Augustus was reigning at the time of the birth of Christ.

In the Highlands

Mornings of heavenly freshness on the trail, canyons on peaks beyond peaks, ridges beyond ridges; sweet scents of balsam and pine; stormy sunrises and wistful sunsets; lakes lying blue in hidden hollows or trembling to sudden silver as the wind went by—quiet lyings awake at night, solemn glories of sunset peaks; companions with friendly trees; chattering of brooks; singings of creeks, and roaring of rivers; ghostly snow-glimmer by starlight; peaks in solemn ranks against the sky.—J. Smeaton Chase.

WHAT NOT TO DO WITH CAR MOTOR

Worn Pinions and Differential Bearings Are Result of Poor Driving of Auto.

(By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.)

Rear axles today as a whole are mighty well made but they would give far better and longer service if the driving were properly done.

Quick engagement of the clutch, heavy overloads, even though for an instant, harsh application of brakes on rough roads, and lack of lubrication are some of the causes of worn pinion and differential bearings and worn gears.

Cause of Unpleasant Noises.
The average car has an adjustable driving pinion and differential unit. When new these bevel gears operate so that the gears mesh in one certain way. If a bearing wears and allows the pinion to change its mesh, or if the differential bearings wear and allow the whole unit to shift away from or toward the pinion, there is bound to be a noise produced and noise of an unpleasant character.

Gears Not Running True.
The bearings, if they are of the ball type with ball separators or cages, may show a breaking down of the cage. Pieces of the cage fall between the gear teeth, chipping them and causing more noise. The bearings themselves then allow more freedom of movement of the differential or pinion. It is absolutely necessary that the two gears remain in a fixed position, and as soon as there is an unusual noise from the axle, it is a warning that the gears are not running true or that there is solid matter between the teeth.

Hurtful to Battery:

- Using impure water for re-filling.
- Using the starter for too long a time.
- Using the horn frequently and with long blasts.
- Neglecting to refill the battery at correct intervals.
- Leaving lights burning brightly with the engine cut off.
- Leaving the car parked for a long period with the lights burning.
- Not watching ammeter gauge to see that the battery is charging correctly.

PLAN FOR CLEAR WINDSHIELD

Small Bottle of Alcohol and Glycerin and a Soft Cloth Is All That Is Needed.

There are many inquiries for something which will keep the windshield clear enough for careful driving during a storm. Only one who has sat behind a foggy windshield will know the feeling of anxiety—almost helplessness—which the driver has.

There are a number of mixtures sold which are guaranteed to keep rain off the windshield, but a very simple one may be made by any driver and be carried in the door pocket for instant use.

A small bottle filled with alcohol and glycerin, half and half, and a soft cloth to apply it, are all that one needs. It is not necessary to paint the whole glass with this. Take a strip six or eight inches wide and the height of the windshield and coat it with the mixture and the rain or snow will not stick to that part.

HAND SIGNALING BY DRIVERS NEGLECTED

Five Maneuvers Indicated by Arm Hung Out Over Side.

Relative to safe and sane automobile traffic control, it is hard to understand why such an important matter as hand signaling by drivers has been universally neglected. At present, if at all, the arm is hung limply over the side of the car and is supposed to indicate one of five maneuvers—right turn, left turn, complete turn, reverse or stop.

Any decently cautious driver, not being a mind reader, naturally slows down because the signal is not intelligible and the entire line of traffic is retarded correspondingly. If the signal of the leading car had been a definite one, there would be little need for such confusion. Adoption of an accepted signal code is the only solution to this difficulty and would not be a difficult thing to accomplish.

It is possible that the complete turn signal could be eliminated and with the aid of four others complete information transmitted to the car behind.

For instance—the left arm extended horizontally from the car with fist closed and one finger extended could indicate a left turn. The hand extended with palm forward could indicate a right turn. Hand extended with palm to the rear could indicate reverse. Arm raised up and down could indicate a stop.

At present, drivers employ signals of their own invention or use the same signal to indicate one of many moves—consequently, the signaling is nearly valueless. The fact that there is an attempt to use these signals shows how willing drivers would be to use a definite system if one were provided for them.

Duped by One of Their Own Kind

By CHARLES E. BAXTER (©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

LARRY had gone back to his evil ways. He and his friend Skinner had doped out a scheme for cleaning up the Foulkes' silver plate, which had been left carelessly in an old-fashioned, cumbrous safe in the dining-room when the family went to the seashore for the summer.

With Skinner waiting outside, ready to give warning, Larry was working by flashlight on the safe door. His manipulations consisted in turning the knob of the combination box and listening to the tumblers. It was so easy with that old kind of safe. A little manipulation—click! The door swung open. Larry saw the silver plate gleaming in front of him in the light of the torch.

He adjusted the bag on his left arm, opened the mouth, and picked up a silver teapot. Engraved and chased! Larry's mouth watered. Coon would give a good price—a good price for him—for all this stuff. Enough to put him and Minnie and the kid on Easy street again.

Click! The electric light flashed on. A tall man in evening clothes was standing in the doorway, covering him with a revolver.

Larry dropped the teapot with a clatter.

"Careful there! Careful with my property!" warned the tall man. "If you dent that there'll be the devil to pay."

Larry's teeth chattered. Without the command, he threw up his hands. Foulkes laughed.

"I need not ask to what I am indebted for the pleasure of this visit?" "Say, fer Gawd's sake git the cops, but don't shoot off yer mouth at me!" whined Larry.

"Precisely. But you interest me, my friend. How did you come to adopt this profession, if I may ask?"

"Say, mister, I never done it before; honest I didn't. Me wife's sick and me child's starving—honest, mister. Say, mister, if you let me go I'll never go wrong again."

"That's what they all say," answered Foulkes grimly. Nevertheless, Larry took hope at a touch of uncertainty in his voice.

"For Gawd's sake don't send a pore guy to the pen, boss!" he whined. "I swear I'll run straight. Gimme a chance for the sake of me sick wife and starving child."

Foulkes hesitated. "All right, beat it!" he commanded.

"Mister, you're a genelman. I—"

"Cut that out! Here!"

Larry, opened his hand incredulously. The other was extending a two-spot.

"Buy your wife some medicine and your child some food with that," said Foulkes.

In short order Larry disappeared through the open window. At the rendezvous Skinner was waiting.

"You got 'em?" he asked hoarsely. "Naw, pinched by old Foulkes. I put up a spiel and he let me go."

"What?"

"And he tipped me a two-spot, the old swine."

"What's that? You meaner tell me . . . why, he's out of town. The noosepapers said this mornin' he's playin' golf. He—"

Shouts from the direction of the house cut short what Skinner was saying. A broad beam of light swept across the lawn. Not daring to stir, the two crouched low in the shadows of the rhododendron bush.

"The cops!" muttered Larry.

Four uniformed policemen came into sight, swarming through the window and guarding the doors. There followed a terrifying silence. Then more uproar.

And the four men appeared, dragging with them the prisoner whom they had captured.

A patrol wagon whirled up in front of the house. The four policemen escorted their captive, passing within half a dozen feet of the two men among the rhododendrons.

"Foulkes!" gasped Larry as they passed.

"What's that you say? Foulkes?" demanded Skinner. "Naw—not so, not so, pardner," he grinned. "That's Jack the Dude—the smartest second-story man in the business. Guess he stung you, and it's a mighty good thing he did."

Larry reflected. Then he plunged his hand into his pocket and drew out the bill.

"Keep it fer me, Skinner," he said. "We'll have it framed for a mascot."

Jimmy is a future capitalist. At the age of seven he doesn't let anything escape him that is likely to yield its quota of hard cash.

The other evening Jimmy's mother was settling herself down for a good read when she saw her small son stride over to the window, seize the kitten that was dozing on the ledge, and, swinging it about by its tail, give it a vigorous shaking.

"Jimmy! Jimmy! Stop that at once," she cried, and, making a grab at the kitten, rescued it from its tormentor.

"What do you mean by being so cruel to the poor little thing?" she demanded.

"I wasn't cruel," said Jimmy. "When dad was playing cards last night I heard him say: 'Now, there's at least five bob in the kitty,' and—well, I was trying to shake it out."

WHAT NOT TO DO WITH CAR MOTOR

Worn Pinions and Differential Bearings Are Result of Poor Driving of Auto.

(By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.)

Rear axles today as a whole are mighty well made but they would give far better and longer service if the driving were properly done.

Quick engagement of the clutch, heavy overloads, even though for an instant, harsh application of brakes on rough roads, and lack of lubrication are some of the causes of worn pinion and differential bearings and worn gears.

Cause of Unpleasant Noises.

The average car has an adjustable driving pinion and differential unit. When new these bevel gears operate so that the gears mesh in one certain way. If a bearing wears and allows the pinion to change its mesh, or if the differential bearings wear and allow the whole unit to shift away from or toward the pinion, there is bound to be a noise produced and noise of an unpleasant character.

Gears Not Running True.

The bearings, if they are of the ball type with ball separators or cages, may show a breaking down of the cage. Pieces of the cage fall between the gear teeth, chipping them and causing more noise. The bearings themselves then allow more freedom of movement of the differential or pinion. It is absolutely necessary that the two gears remain in a fixed position, and as soon as there is an unusual noise from the axle, it is a warning that the gears are not running true or that there is solid matter between the teeth.

Hurtful to Battery:

Using impure water for re-filling.
Using the starter for too long a time.
Using the horn frequently and with long blasts.
Neglecting to refill the battery at correct intervals.
Leaving lights burning brightly with the engine cut off.
Leaving the car parked for a long period with the lights burning.
Not watching ammeter gauge to see that the battery is charging correctly.

PLAN FOR CLEAR WINDSHIELD

Small Bottle of Alcohol and Glycerin and a Soft Cloth is All That is Needed.

There are many inquiries for something which will keep the windshield clear enough for careful driving during a storm. Only one who has sat behind a foggy windshield will know the feeling of anxiety—almost helplessness—which the driver has.

There are a number of mixtures sold which are guaranteed to keep rain off the windshield, but a very simple one may be made by any driver and be carried in the door pocket for instant use.

A small bottle filled with alcohol and glycerin, half and half, and a soft cloth to apply it, are all that one needs. It is not necessary to paint the whole glass with this. Take a strip six or eight inches wide and the height of the windshield and coat it with the mixture and the rain or snow will not stick to that part.

HAND SIGNALING BY DRIVERS NEGLECTED

Five Maneuvers Indicated by Arm Hung Out Over Side.

Relative to safe and sane automobile traffic control, it is hard to understand why such an important matter as hand signaling by drivers has been universally neglected. At present, if at all, the arm is hung limply over the side of the car and is supposed to indicate one of five maneuvers—right turn, left turn, complete turn, reverse or stop.

Any decently cautious driver, not being a mind reader, naturally slows down because the signal is not intelligible and the entire line of traffic is retarded correspondingly. If the signal of the leading car had been a definite one, there would be little need for such confusion. Adoption of an accepted signal code is the only solution to this difficulty and would not be a difficult thing to accomplish.

It is possible that the complete turn signal could be eliminated and with the aid of four others complete information transmitted to the car behind.

For instance—the left arm extended horizontally from the car with fist closed and one finger extended could indicate a left turn. The hand extended with palm forward could indicate a right turn. Hand extended with palm to the rear could indicate reverse. Arm raised up and down could indicate a stop.

At present, drivers employ signals of their own invention or use the same signal to indicate one of many moves—consequently, the signaling is nearly valueless. The fact that there is an attempt to use these signals shows how willing drivers would be to use a definite system if one were provided for them.

Duped by One of Their Own Kind

By CHARLES E. BAXTER
(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

LARRY had gone back to his evil ways. He and his friend Skinner had duped out a scheme for cleaning up the Foulkes' silver plate, which had been left carelessly in an old-fashioned, cumbersome safe in the dining-room when the family went to the seashore for the summer.

With Skinner waiting outside, ready to give warning, Larry was working by flashlight on the safe door.

His manipulations consisted in turning the knob of the combination box and listening to the tumbler. It was so easy with that old kind of safe. A little manipulation—click! The door swung open. Larry saw the silver plate gleaming in front of him in the light of the torch.

He adjusted the bag on his left arm, opened the mouth, and picked up a silver teapot. Engraved and chased! Larry's mouth watered. Coon would give a good price—a good price for him—for all this stuff. Enough to put him and Minnie and the kid on Easy street again.

Click! The electric light flashed on. A tall man in evening clothes was standing in the doorway, covering him with a revolver.

Larry dropped the teapot with a clatter.

"Careful there! Careful with my property!" warned the tall man. "If you dent that there'll be the devil to pay."

Larry's teeth chattered. Without the command, he threw up his hands. Foulkes laughed.

"I need not ask to what I am indebted for the pleasure of this visit?" "Say, fer Gawd's sake git the cops, but don't shoot off yer mouth at me!" whined Larry.

"Precisely. But you interest me, my friend. How did you come to adopt this profession, if I may ask?"

"Say, mister, I never done it before; honest I didn't. Me wife's sick and me child's starving—honest, mister. Say, mister, if you let me go I'll never go wrong again."

"That's what they all say," answered Foulkes grimly. Nevertheless, Larry took hope at a touch of uncertainty in his voice.

"For Gawd's sake don't send a pore guy to the pen, boss!" he whined. "I swear I'll run straight. Gimme a chance for the sake of me sick wife and starving child."

Foulkes hesitated. "All right, beat it!" he commanded.

"Mister, you're a gentelman. I—"

"Cut that out! Here!" Larry, opened his hand incredulously. The other was extending a two-spot.

"Buy your wife some medicine and your child some food with that," said Foulkes.

In short order Larry disappeared through the open window. At the rendezvous Skinner was waiting.

"You got 'em?" he asked hoarsely. "Naw, pinched by old Foulkes. I put up a spiel and he let me go."

"What?"

"And he tipped me a two-spot, the old swine."

"What's that? You meaner tell me . . . why, he's out of town. The noosepayers said this mornin' he's playin' golf. He—"

Shouts from the direction of the house cut short what Skinner was saying. A broad beam of light swept across the lawn. Not daring to stir, the two crouched low in the shadows of the rhododendron bush.

"The cops!" muttered Larry.

Four uniformed policemen came into sight, swarming through the window and guarding the doors. There followed a terrifying silence. Then more uproar.

And the four men appeared, dragging with them the prisoner whom they had captured.

A patrol wagon whirled up in front of the house. The four policemen escorted their captive, passing within half a dozen feet of the two men among the rhododendrons.

"Foulkes!" gasped Larry as they passed.

"What's that you say? Foulkes?" demanded Skinner. "Naw—not so, not so, pardner," he grinned. "That's Lark the Dude—the smartest second-story man in the business. Guess he stung you, and it's a mighty good thing he did."

Larry reflected. Then he plunged his hand into his pocket and drew out the bill.

"Keep it fer me, Skinner," he said. "We'll have it framed for a mascot."

Must Cultivate Food

The common impression that the food of Samoa islanders "falls in their laps" is quite wrong, says Prof. W. A. Setchell of the University of California. There are few edible plant products obtained there without regular attention. Every native village has its plantation where the famous bread fruit, bananas and coconuts are raised. The plantations are generally in forest clearings and are allowed to grow up in all sorts of weeds.

Strength of Ice

Science has enabled great military leaders to know when they might cross a river or lake of ice with comparative safety. By actual experiment and computation, it has been found that ice two inches thick will support a man; four inches thick, a man on horseback; five inches thick, an 80-pound gun; eight inches thick, a battery of artillery, and ten inches thick, an army.

Facts About Circus

The American circus as a business venture dates from the days of its inception when it first appeared in 1767 on Boston Common. The first circus to take to the road was founded by Aaron Turner about 1820 at North Salem, N. Y., and the first of the long-lived American circuses pitched its tent in 1824 and bore the name of John Robinson.

Fast Ocean Traveler

There are no speed regulations for the sailfish, the speed demon of the Gulf stream, a giant ocean traveler that can make more than sixty miles an hour, can rise clear of the water and travel in the air a distance of forty feet by the use of a great back fin that acts as a sail, according to a writer in Adventure magazine.

SWIMMING POOL

H. M. Crites Donates Material and Ice Company Gives Pond.

Word was received by telephone Monday evening that the community swimming pool had been given another friendly boost by Mr. H. M. Crites, who agrees to furnish the necessary dirt and gravel for the construction of the pool. A gravel bank on his land is near and furnishes the right kind of material. That Mr. Crites places this at the disposal of the community pool will materially hasten and facilitate the building of the pool.

The public should be grateful for this display of public spirit and join their contributions to his and those already made in order that the pool may become a reality in the near future.

Some who are not as familiar with the plans as those who have been working on the details may be interested to learn exactly what the proposed plans are. Some years ago, it will be recalled there was a pond at the ice plant. When this was no longer used, the water was released, but the banks still were left intact. It is a very simple matter to build a levee across the lower corner and cut off enough ground for a pool. By throwing up a levee in a semi-circle connecting with the present banks of the pond about one hundred and fifty or two hundred feet from the outlet, ample area will be secured. The bottom will be cleaned up and graded so that the water will run from a depth of seven or eight feet at the outlet, where diving will be done, to a few inches at the upper part of the pool where the children can paddle, wade or swim in safety. The depths will be marked and the entire bottom covered with gravel and sand so as to do away with the present mud bottom.

The hundreds of gallons of well water now going to waste at the ice house every minute will be led down to the pool at the upper edge. The overflow has a natural outlet into the small creek at the lower end. The details have been worked out and are entirely practical. Where Lancaster has had to spend some thousands of dollars for her pool, we shall be able to secure one for some hundreds, possibly a thousand. This sum is sought to make the project secure. The fact that the ice company is cooperating fully in giving the ground and the water, that Mr. Crites is cooperating in much of the material, that already three hundred and twenty dollars have been raised, should be an incentive for all the rest of us to do our best toward securing the balance of money necessary at once.

You need not wait until the solicitors see you. Send your check to Mr. E. C. Ebert, who is treasurer of the committee appointed from the chamber of commerce, The American Legion and the Rotary club. You may not care to swim. Your boy and girl do. If you have no boy who will use the pool, remember that the other fellow's boy and girl are anxious to swim where there will be security and supervision.

Creation of Athletic Commission Favored by Donahay.

Columbus, July 15.—Governor Donahay advocates the creation of a state athletic commission to control racing, boxing, wrestling and other professionalized sports in Ohio. "I have always believed Ohio should have a state athletic commission," said the governor. "I believe such a body should be created to control racing, boxing, wrestling and other forms of professional athletic sports. With such a commission, I believe these sports would be put on a better basis and would be kept 'cleaner' than they are now. Furthermore, the commission would be a revenue producer to the state."

The governor said that legislation would have to be passed before such a commission could be created and denied that he was contemplating appointing a commission with jurisdiction over racing.

Explosion Starts Stampede

Cleveland, July 15.—Blowing out of a fuse started a fire in a control box in a streetcar, filled the car with smoke and started a stampede to the exit doors. The conductor refused to open the doors while the car was in motion and passengers fought until they forced the doors open. Twelve were more or less seriously hurt.

Must Cultivate Food

The common impression that the food of Samoa islanders "falls in their laps" is quite wrong, says Prof. W. A. Setchell of the University of California. There are few edible plant products obtained there without regular attention. Every native village has its plantation where the famous bread fruit, bananas and coconuts are raised. The plantations are generally in forest clearings and are allowed to grow up in all sorts of weeds.

Strength of Ice

Science has enabled great military leaders to know when they might cross a river or lake of ice with comparative safety. By actual experiment and computation, it has been found that ice two inches thick will support a man; four inches thick, a man on horseback; five inches thick, an 80-pound gun; eight inches thick, a battery of artillery, and ten inches thick, an army.

Facts About Circus

The American circus as a business venture dates from the days of its inception when it first appeared in 1767 on Boston Common. The first circus to take to the road was founded by Aaron Turner about 1820 at North Salem, N. Y., and the first of the long-lived American circuses pitched its tent in 1824 and bore the name of John Robinson.

Fast Ocean Traveler

There are no speed regulations for the sailfish, the speed demon of the Gulf stream, a giant ocean traveler that can make more than sixty miles an hour, can rise clear of the water and travel in the air a distance of forty feet by the use of a great back fin that acts as a sail, according to a writer in Adventure magazine.

Men are best measured by what they do, not by what they say. The bigger the man the bigger the obstacles he overcame to be great. Success lies in fitting oneself to the job, not in fitting the job to capabilities and abilities as they are.—Pennsylvania Grit.

The Burmese woman is usually the business head of the family and according to authorities her highest ambition is to maintain her husband in lordly idleness and to supply him with abundant funds for cock fighting, bullock cart racing and gambling.

SWIMMING POOL

H. M. Crites Donates Material and Ice Company Gives Pond.

Word was received by telephone Monday evening that the community swimming pool had been given another friendly boost by Mr. H. M. Crites, who agrees to furnish the necessary dirt and gravel for the construction of the pool. A gravel bank on his land is near and furnishes the right kind of material. That Mr. Crites places this at the disposal of the community pool will materially hasten and facilitate the building of the pool.

The public should be grateful for this display of public spirit and join their contributions to his and those already made in order that the pool may become a reality in the near future.

Some who are not as familiar with the plans as those who have been working on the details may be interested to learn exactly what the proposed plans are. Some years ago, it will be recalled there was a pond at the ice plant. When this was no longer used, the water was released, but the banks still were left intact. It is a very simple matter to build a levee across the lower corner and cut off enough ground for a pool. By throwing up a levee in a semi-circle connecting with the present banks of the pond about one hundred and fifty or two hundred feet from the outlet, ample area will be secured. The bottom will be cleaned up and graded so that the water will run from a depth of seven or eight feet at the outlet, where diving will be done, to a few inches at the upper part of the pool where the children can paddle, wade or swim in safety. The depths will be marked and the entire bottom covered with gravel and sand so as to do away with the present mud bottom.

The hundreds of gallons of well water now going to waste at the ice house every minute will be led down to the pool at the upper edge. The overflow has a natural outlet into the small creek at the lower end. The details have been worked out and are entirely practical. Where Lancaster has had to spend some thousands of dollars for her pool, we shall be able to secure one for some hundreds, possibly a thousand. This sum is sought to make the project secure. The fact that the ice company is cooperating fully in giving the ground and the water, that Mr. Crites is cooperating in much of the material, that already three hundred and twenty dollars have been raised, should be an incentive for all the rest of us to do our best toward securing the balance of money necessary at once.

You need not wait until the solicitors see you. Send your check to Mr. E. C. Ebert, who is treasurer of the committee appointed from the chamber of commerce, The American Legion and the Rotary club. You may not care to swim. Your boy and girl do. If you have no boy who will use the pool, remember that the other fellow's boy and girl are anxious to swim where there will be security and supervision.
